Today's Digital Learning Leaders and Specialists are responsible for helping teachers design, create and curate digital resources, use technology tools for teaching and learning, and lead their school or school district in providing engaging, real world learning experiences for students.

The TIESed Digital Learning Leaders program is an extended professional development program that runs from August 2016 to May 2017. Our content and activities are based on the International Society for Technology in Education (ISTE) recommended standards for Technology Coaches. Topics of study will include:

- Visionary Leadership
- Teaching, Learning, and Assessment
- DigitalAge Learning Environments
- Professional Development and Program Evaluation
- Digital Citizenship
- Content Knowledge and Professional Growth

The new TIES Digital Learning Leaders Program will begin August 17-18, 2016 with two days of professional development designed to build skills for educators who wish to empower their peers with great resources, tools, and ideas.

What do I get in the TIES Digital Learning Leaders Program? 50+ CEU hours of research-based professional development including:

- Five full days of face-to-face professional development
- Individual coaching with an experienced TIESed educator
- Opportunities to present at the TIES Conference and other forums
- A connected community to exchange ideas and practices with other digital educators
- One-day registration at the TIES 2016 Conference in December 2016
- One or more site visits to schools that are modeling digital learning practices of interest
- Goal setting and project completion support
- Toolkit of best practices, resource banks, technology tools, and ideas
- Certification as a TIESed Digital Learning Leader

The Digital Learning Leaders program is designed for anyone who is a leader in the process of integrating technology in a school or district. Participants from past groups have been library media specialists, classroom teachers, lab instructors, technology integrationists, administrators, and teachers on special assignment.
